

Hybrid Learning

Strategies

Resources

You're a distance student, too.

- 1 semester credit = 80 minutes per class per day for 40 days
- Hybrid students will spend 20 days in the physical classroom and 20 days at home online.
- Your days at home are not "off days."
- Attendance requires more than just logging in to Infinite Campus. To be present, you must also complete school work; otherwise, it's as though you're skipping classes.

Know your A and B Days.

- At home, you don't have to "check in" at specific times, but you keep to your AA/BB schedule to help you divide your workload into manageable chunks and keep up with your classes' pacing guides.

The Semester

School Calendar: Use this calendar to track A and B days. A days are highlighted in orange.

Build a routine.

- Don't think about all of your classes at once; work on your A Day classes on A Days and your B Day classes on B Days.
- Most students have 2-3 academic classes per day. If each class is 80 minutes, you should plan to spend 3-4 hours on school on your days at home.
- Try to "attend school" at the same time each day at home so that you build a habit.
- When possible, create a quiet work space for yourself, free of distractions.
- Remember to schedule breaks away from the screen.

Follow the pacing guides.

- Each class has a calendar or pacing guide to tell you which assignments you should do each week.
- You will likely have "new" work on your days at home since these days count toward our 40 total days in a semester.
- In other words, your distance days are usually not "homework" or "catch-up" days, so you should be checking your class pacing guides to keep up with the work.

Ignore Edgenuity's Pacing and Grading.

- The only schedule that matters is the pacing guide for each class.
- If Edgenuity says you're "behind" but Infinite Campus and/or your teacher says you're caught up, then you're caught up.
- If Edgenuity says you're on pace but Infinite Campus and/or your teacher says you're missing work, then you're missing work.

Each class is different.

- Not all classes are using Edgenuity in the same way. Some teachers might be adding their own work or videos, and others might be using it as a tool for practice assignments.
- Some classes have "free roaming" turned on so that you can skip around. Others have this turned off so that you must complete one assignment to get to the next.
- Work with your teachers to determine how Edgenuity works in each class and pairs with your pacing guides.

Extra Help: If you need help navigating the platform or organizing your workload, schedule a time to meet with Ms. Johnson. Her email is johnsone@spcpa.org and her availability is as follows:

- 3A (11:00 to 12:30)
- After School (3:30:400)

Attend Distance Zoom Sessions.

- Each class has a designated time for a Zoom meeting. (These times are based on the A/B schedule.)
- On your days at home, you can video chat with your teachers to ask questions, get help on specific assignments, and communicate with your peers.

Email your teachers.

- Don't wait to ask your questions; email your teachers right away.
- If you can't attend a Zoom Support Session, email your teachers to schedule another time (perhaps after school) to chat via video or phone or see if they have availability during your study hall at school.
- Try to ask specific questions. An email that says "I'm confused" or "I'm behind" doesn't tell your teachers what you're struggling with.
- Instead, try to ask specific questions about specific assignments.

Put in the time.

- Remember, you have to dedicate 3-4 hours to school each day you're at home, so once you have asked for help, you need to get to work.
